

INTERVIEW

“

I have been able to combine my legal practice with teaching at University, sharing my knowledge and passion with future legal professionals.

”

Jean-Paul Spang
Partner, Corporate and M&A

Q1

What achievement are you most proud of in your career?

Being at the forefront of legal advancements and innovations has been a defining aspect throughout my career. For example, I had the privilege of being one of the pioneers of private equity in Luxembourg, contributing to the growth and evolution of this sector.

Additionally, I have been able to combine my legal practice with teaching at University, sharing my knowledge and passion with future legal professionals.

Q2

What makes your practice area an attractive choice for aspiring lawyers?

Practicing corporate and M&A law requires strong legal skills encompassing various aspects of business law. Each transaction presents unique challenges and opportunities, requiring lawyers to adapt their strategies and problem solving skills accordingly. The combination of legal expertise, and of the need for anticipation and organization, as well as the diverse client base make corporate and M&A law an attractive choice for aspiring lawyers seeking a challenging and rewarding career path.

Q3

What are your personal aspirations for the future of the firm?

Maintaining and enhancing quality is key. This means delivering exceptional legal services to clients, maintaining a strong reputation for professionalism and integrity, and continually seeking excellence in every endeavor.

Innovation is crucial for the future success of the firm. By fostering a culture of innovation, the firm can stay ahead of the curve and adapt to the evolving needs of clients in an ever-changing legal landscape.

I envision the firm as a full-service provider offering comprehensive legal solutions while achieving the right mix of cross-border and local work that is essential for the firm's growth and international presence.

